Post's London cablegram says: Post's London cablegram says:

The markets were quiet today, but disorganized by the American situation and the uncertainty whether Control of the today of the t gress at the eleventh hour will authorize a gold loan. It is felt here that President Cleveland has wisely so arranged the matter so as to arrest the attention of the American nation to He the currency problem. Business in American stocks was neglected today, but the market is keenly watched. Operators are even decreasing their committments in other markets to be ready at the right moment for Ameriready at the right moment for Americans, no public announcement of the exact nature of the American loan being expected here before the ten days' limit has expired. Continental exchanges on London are still rising. There was a renewed slump in Grand Trunks today on anticipations of the forthcoming report. The closing was a shade better. Uruguays are flat on the announcement of a small internal loan.

MILD ROAST FOR STALMANN.

Annconda Standard Has Something on the Estes Case.

The Anaconda Standard in commenting upon the matter of the estate of Colonel Estes and the connection of Otto Stalmann with it, as described in these columns a few days since, says among other things:

"Colonel Estes was one of the plans."

among other things:

"Colonel Estes was one of the ploneer merchants in this city. He came to Anaconda from Butte. He had been at that time a resident of Montana for about five years. He was a grocer in Butte, but his business there went to the bad, and he was without resources when he came to Anaconda.

He prospered here. He was the manvian papers, please of He prospered here. He was the man-ager of a general mercantile house which won an enviable reputation in the state. In spite of serious losses entailed in outside ventures, and not-withstanding extravagant habits. Col-onel Estes retired from business after seven years of experience here with a little less than $50,000 in the equivaa little less than $50,000 in the equiva-lent of cold cash.

Leaving Anaconda under the delu-sion, as it proved to be, that he could do better, Colonel Estes went to Sait Lake city. This he did under the ad-vice of Otto Stalmann, who was form-erly a superintendent at the works in this city, but who went to Sait Lake to become a stockholder and the manto become a stockholder and the man-ager of a concern that up to this mo-ment has missed little of being a total wreck. Colonel Estes died on Easter morning of last year. He was the in-timate friend of Mr. Stalmann. His JHs timate friend of Mr. Stalmann. His brief experience there was bad. It is doubtful whether he left an estate worth cleaning up. He was not in ro-bust health when he left Anaconda, but he was all right in a financial way. Evidently he fell in with "friends" who "went through him."
